What is Live, Laugh, Learn?

Mollie Gross and Kristine Schellhaas are bringing military audiences fresh perspectives, deployment tools, networking opportunities, and a new appreciation for our military lifestyle. These two ladies have worldwide fan bases with two distinctive markets: 1) military spouse and 2) yet to be recruited to retirees. They use humor, information, and resources to reach their audiences strategically through social media, including Facebook, Twitter, Pinterest, YouTube, and more to connect with the new generation of military wife.

The vast use of internet and social media has created a smart, media savvy individual who questions authority, wants 24/7 access, and seeks individuals speaking their own language. Young spouses are crying out for new leadership and someone they can relate to for direction.

- Audience members will connect emotionally with speakers through laughter and hard-hitting advice utilizing a dynamic, guided workshop.
- Following the workshop presentation, the audience engages in a no-holds bar, funny and upbeat Q&A session delving into military life, motherhood, relationships and more.
- Lastly, individuals connect with new resources, friends, and participate in social interactions with meet up opportunities and social games.

Bottom Line: Spouses will LAUGH at themselves, LEARN new resources and tools, and LIVE more fully with the lessons learned.

"All I have to say is thank God for you both. I can't tell you how many events I've gone to where I've been bored out of my mind and dazing off. How am I supposed to relate to someone my mother's age and think that they are going through the same thing that I'm going through? It's a harsh reality, but things change." MCRD, 2013

"Kristine and Mollie are young military wives and I can completely relate to them. I love that I can go online and connect with their funny and honest resources and advice. So many of the other bloggers sound the same, but Mollie and Kristine stand out. They make me laugh and understand what I'm going through today." Camp Pendleton, 2013

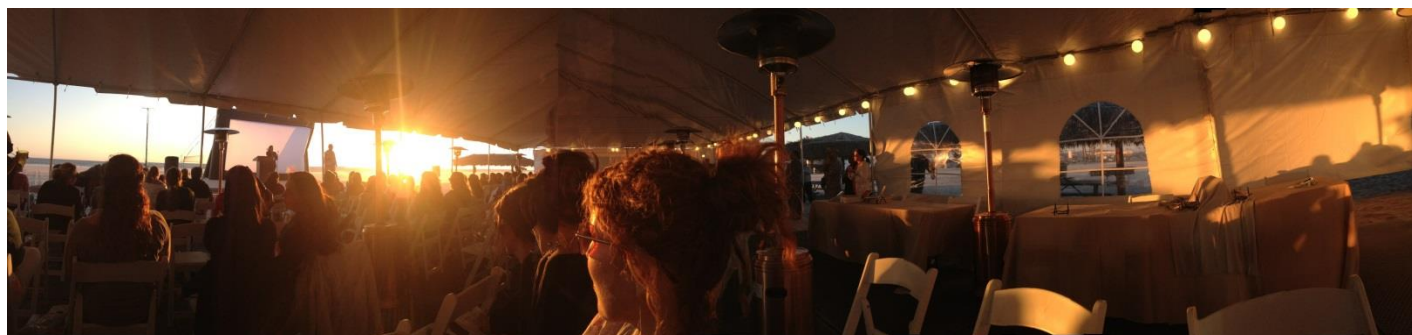

Mollie and Kristine Are

- Wartime brides. As newlyweds, their husbands deployed immediately to Iraq in the initial invasion and then into Fallujah, Iraq.
- Married to ground combat infantrymen.
- Key Volunteers who assisted families left behind when their husbands were sent off to war.
- Published Authors in numerous publications.
- Young, fresh and highly followed in social media.
- Married to veterans. Kristine's husband is still active duty.

Check out some video of Kristine and Mollie's performances from Camp Pendleton, 2013. It's amateur video, but at least it will give you an idea of the overall message.

What Happens at the Live, Laugh, Learn Event?

Mollie Gross excites the crowd with humor and shenanigans and then follows with motivational speaking, reflecting on life as a new military spouse, friendship, and an attitude of gratitude. Following Mollie, Kristine Schellhaas shares the heart-wrenching story of her military life, dealing with a sudden loss of a child due to a tragic accident, learning to love and live again, and creating something bigger than herself to help others. Mollie and Kristine will share thirty minutes to an hour each, providing deployment and military life resiliency to fellow military spouses. They'll also have the opportunity to connect with the speakers with a Q&A panel and/or breakout discussions depending on time.

COMMENTS FROM MILITARY WIVES

Here is what the wives are saying!

Mollie may be known as a humorist/stand up comedian, but she is so much more than that. At the Live Laugh Learn event, I walked away feeling like a different person. Mollie spoke about being thankful for the life you are living as a military spouse... Make it a positive experience. You can still follow your dreams just like Mollie did. You aren't physically near your family, but being surrounded by new people, you have the opportunity to make new friends who turn into family." A. Smith

And my goodness.... Kristine. Wow! She had me in tears and then laughing. What an amazing, beautiful, inspirational woman!!!! My favorite thing she said that will forever stick out for me was when she was talking about her son and the tragedy she endured. She simply said "I allowed myself to love again" once she had decided that life goes on. Even typing it brings tears to my eyes! ~Brooke King

I attended the Live, Laugh, and Learn show at Del Mar beach and was so glad I got to meet you! [You] made me laugh, forget about all the negative things that were going on. You inspired me to look at the glass half full, to look at everything in a positive way and that no matter how hard or bad things get, everything gets better. I thoroughly enjoyed both performances, Kristine's was touching, heartfelt, and inspiring. Hearing her story was such a wonderful example of a military wife facing hardships and still looking at the glass half full. ~Maggie Owens

You both are truly an inspiration to not only me, but all other military wives. Take care and God bless! xoxoxo

I wish I would have been to one of your shows before my husband's last deployment because I was one of those wives and it would have been a lot easier if I had some inspiration." Tiffany S.

"Kristine is a woman who is greatly looked up to in the military spouse community. At the Live Laugh Learn event, she spoke to us about the challenges she faced. Through all of her hardships, she has made such an impact on military spouses with the start of asm.life.com. Kristine's speech truly made me feel grateful for everything I have. She is a perfect example of somebody who turned negative situations into a positive experience in the end." Abby S.

"These two women have lived through it all and live to tell about it. Their stories were funny, sad, heartwarming, and most importantly, inspiring. What an unforgettable and fun evening!" Amy M.

Kristine Schellhaas is the 2013 Camp Pendleton Military Spouse of the Year, and one of three finalists for 2013 Marine Corps Spouse of the Year. Kristine is the wife of an active duty Marine officer, the mother of two, and knows the difficulties of trying to maintain a career in this crazy world. She has spent 16 years together with her Marine and endured four deployments, fifteen moves, five duty stations, and more. Kristine has both a BBA in Business Management and a BBA in HR Management from Boise State University as well as an MA in Organizational Leadership from Gonzaga University.

USMC Life was founded in 2009 and is a global brand with over half a million page views per quarter with over 40,000 visits per month. The website is geared towards active duty Marines and spouses, but also draws in parents, family members and friends. The site provides mentoring to the military community, resources for families navigating the military environment, and offers the latest information about news affecting our way of life. USMC Life's radio show, Semper Feisty radio, a funny and insightful podcast and live radio program, pulls in Vice Presidents and authors as guests on the program. Kristine discusses her daily life including mom and family lessons, stories and experiences, trending news topics, and funny anecdotes.

Hailed by The First Lady of the Marine Corps, Mrs. Amos:

“Kristine is a remarkable example of a driven, involved, energetic and successful Marine Corps spouse. Thank goodness our Marine Corps has spouses like her; she brings life, laughter and friendship to our unique community. Kristine is an inspiration!”

Her sketch and stand up comedy has over 336,000+ hits on You Tube.

"Mollie Gross was the perfect addition to OSMF's 1st annual event, Military Spouse Appreciation Day 2013, in Portland, Oregon. She had the ability to bring life, lift spirits and find common ground with spouses that attended from all Armed Service Branches. She navigated spouses from laughter to tears and back again, with her uncanny ability to weave humor into a thoughtful message that skillfully encouraged military spouses, to not only develop an 'attitude of gratitude', but also, to live their dreams! The spouses walked away inspired from her motivational speaking. Thank you Mollie Gross! - OSMF (Tara Clark & Alyson Schumacher, Founders)"
